Ask the Motor Medics®

Automotive Advice from The Under the Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I used the remote start on my 2004 Chevy Silverado to warm it up the other morning and came out to find my interior filled with smoke. I did not see smoke coming out of any area, so I aired it out and drove to work. I have checked all the electrical functions and the only thing I find that does not work is the heater fan high speed. Could this be what was smoking

Steven in Kalamazoo Michigan

Dear Steven,

The interior HVAC blower fan system could have been the source of the smoke. Blower resistor failures are common as vehicles age. The blower windings break down over time and the resistance on the circuit increases; this extra resistance causes the resistor to run much hotter than it should. Eventually the resistor can fail and sometimes it will let off smoke. In addition to the resistor failure some vehicles have issues with the wires that attach to the resistor and the connector plug melting. In the case of the Silverado, it is a common issue and some of them were subject to a recall so check with your local dealership for more information. Most important of all to remember is to stop driving a vehicle when you see or smell smoke. Fire spreads quickly in a vehicle and you can be overcome by the fumes of the many materials used in its construction. Always think about your safety first..

Take care, the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2007 Chevy Impala with several issues that all occurred about the same time. I have a check engine light on, I have poor cabin heat, and my fuel mileage is not as good as it used to be. What kind of things should I be looking for?

Diane in Wray Colorado

Dear Diane,

It is possible that just one thing is causing all your problems and that item is small and relatively inexpensive, your engines thermostat. The thermostat is responsible for keeping the engine temperature at a steady level so that you have proper heat available for the interior and proper operating temperature for the engine to operate efficiently. When a thermostat does not allow the engine to warm to a certain level on OBDII vehicles the computer responds by turning on the check engine light. Another effect of low temps is a decrease in fuel mileage due to continued fuel mixture enrichment. In the past, our vehicles used carburetors with chokes on them to enrich the fuel mixture for proper running until the engine was warm. Around the early eighties this changed to electronic fuel injection and is now controlled by the engine computer. If the thermostat does not regulate the engine temperature properly the computer may continue to enrich the fuel mixture causing the vehicle to have poor mileage. Thermostats should be serviced when the coolant is flushed or when they fail to operate as designed.

Take care, the Motor Medics

Let's Have a Safe SUMMER!

Scooters

We still receive many questions about motorized scooters, so here are the parts of the ordinance we're asked about most often:

- Drivers under 14 years old must ride on the sidewalk when available, wear a helmet, carry no more than one person on the scooter, and not exceed 15 mph.
- Drivers 14 years old and older may ride on either the sidewalk or street. However, when a shared-use path is available, they must use it. They also may not exceed the posted speed limit.
- All drivers must obey traffic control devices. Scooters may only be operated from 15 minutes after sunrise until 15 minutes before sunset unless equipped with a headlight or headlamp.

We hope this helps clarify the rules. The complete electric scooter ordinance can be found on the city website under City Ordinances, Chapter 12-22 (<https://cityofbrandon.org/ordinancebook>).
