Ask the Motor Medics®

Automotive Advice from The Under the Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,
I have a general question about air bag safety. I heard you talking on a recent episode of Under The Hood about the testing of air bags and how they may be tested differently in America and Overseas markets. The difference was in America they are tested with the use of a seat belt and Overseas possibly without. I have never had an airbag deploy in my vehicle and I don't look forward to ever having it occur, but I want to know what to expect if it does and what I can do to prevent injury. Personally, I would rather not have airbags in my cars, but it doesn't look like they are going away. What is your take on people who ride with their feet on the dash or a pet in their laps?

Mike in Sweetwater Texas.

Dear Mike,
Air bags are great inventions that have saved many lives but if misused they can cause severe injury. Every car made has a guide for proper air bag use printed in the owner's manual and it needs to be followed. Proper distance between you and the airbag is crucial as well as seat belt use. Follow the guidelines in the manual and never place anything between you and the airbag. Anything placed in this zone will become a projectile, including a pet and is extremely dangerous. As for feet on the dash, an inflating air bag can cause irreparable damage to them.

Take care, the Motor Medics.

Dear Motor Medics,
My car has been overheating and the shop I have been going to can't seem to find the cause. It only seems to overheat when I drive it, and I can't seem to find a pattern with it that I can use to have the shop duplicate the problem. On occasion I will find the heater stops blowing hot air and at the same time the temp gauge increases into the red zone. If I pull over and let the engine idle for a while it will cool down and the heat will come back. It has also done this at idle before. They want to replace head gaskets, but they aren't sure if they are bad. Is there anything I can do to find out for sure before we tear it apart and possibly don't find anything wrong with it?

Jeff in Branson Missouri.

Dear Jeff,
You never want to guess with head gaskets as they are very expensive to replace but what you are describing is a failure symptom. When coolant flow is disrupted by a head gasket leak, it is the presence of exhaust gases in the coolant that is the cause. A simple test can be done to check for these gases and if any traces are found you know there is an issue with a gasket or something more severe. Once gases are detected a tear down is necessary to determine the exact cause, gasket, block, head, etc.

Take care, the Motor Medics.
