Ask the Motor Medics®

Automotive Advice from The Under the Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a newer Mazda Miata and I'm having a problem with detonation in my engine. During cruising and under acceleration the engine will ping under load and on hills. The car calls for premium gasoline and I use it every tankful but even if I use the highest-octane premium fuel the car still pings. Do you have any ideas on what it could be?

Mark in Sioux Falls South Dakota

Dear Mark,

You have asked a great question and we want to address the fuel question first as it's very important. If a car specifies premium, it is important to use it. Not only does it ensure the best performance from the fuel that the car can deliver, but it also allows the car to burn cleaner than using less than premium lower octane fuel. When the lower octane fuel is used it is possible to build up carbon deposits which can cause detonation. You may be using premium, but you could still have some carbon buildup in the engine which is contributing to the detonation. Carbon deposits can often be removed by getting a professional fuel system cleaning done. The kind we use cleans both the injection system and the combustion chambers, which is what we suggest. A professional cleaning combined with regular use of premium fuel can make a difference in the amount of detonation you get from your engine. Good luck and enjoy that car.

Take care, the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I drive a 2009 Dodge caravan with the sport package. I use it for daily driving and on weekends I tow a boat in the summer and two snowmobiles in the winter. Last month my trailer light wiring harness that plugs in under the vehicle corroded so badly that I removed it from the main harness and carefully closed and protected the bare wires. After the plug removal I removed the tail lamps and carefully connected the trailer harness directly to the tail and brake lamp wires so they would not come off or short. I have hauled the trailer about three times now and on the most recent trip both turn signals failed. I don't see any burnt fuses, but I get to power to the lights.

Daryl in Newport Beach Rhode Island

Dear Daryl,

The caravans now contain a front control module that controls lighting functions including the taillights and trailer lighting. When built, the trailer lights were on a separate circuit than the taillights. The tail lamp circuit is made to only carry the amp load of the two tail lamps and nothing else. If any extra load is added by way of a trailer the module can overload which can destroy it. The first step is to remove the added wiring and check fuses. If there is still no power you will need to have the module checked and possibly replaced.

Take care, the Motor Medics

Coming in tomorrow's

It's the start of our seventh year of publication, and the Brandon Valley Journal is celebrating by sending out more than 9,000 copies of this week's edition! As always, it's chocked full of local stories about local news, local people, local events and local sports.

For starters, we've got an update on the Brandon 90 Plaza retail development, the latest news from Brandon's Planning & Zoning Commission, along with spotlighting Brandon VFW Post 4726's national honor.

If it's stories about people, places and events, well, we've got you covered there, too. This week, we introduce you to four BVHS grads that are traveling the country with three separate drum corps and a Brandon father and his five sons embarking on a new sideline business.

CHS shares the wealth with the Brandon Area Food Pantry, the Tuntland family reflects on their educational experience at the dedication of Brandon's 1916 school marker, and SDSU football coach Jimmy Rogers gives BV Area Chamber of Commerce members some insight into building a national title caliber team.

If sports is your bag, well, we've got a profile on Buddy Kofoed and the latest racing results from Huset's Speedway, plus a recap of the Valley Rats' week in the amateur baseball ranks, and step inside the gym for the four-day Love of the Game basketball camp.

And there's a whole lot more news, sports and features. So, if you find yourself asking, "I wonder what's going on ..." it's time to subscribe to the Brandon Valley Journal! Give us a call at (605) 582-9999 to subscribe today so you, too, can be in the know.
