Automotive Advice from The Under the Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,
I have a 2005 Chevrolet 2500 truck with a 6.0 engine and automatic transmission. Lately I have been experiencing a noise behind the dashboard upon starting. At first, I thought it was under the hood and searched for something that could make the kind of sound I was experiencing. After much searching I discovered it was coming from behind the passenger side of the dashboard. It is located just to the right of the glove box door and back by the firewall. There is a box there that I assume is part of the heating system and when I touch it, I can feel the clicking in sync to the noise. This noise occurs each time I start the vehicle and lasts for about one minute. Have you ever heard a noise like this before?

Scott in Denver Colorado

Dear Scott,
Yes, we have heard this noise before and can help you. Most vehicles went to fully electrically operated heater door systems in the late nineties. The door motors have position sensors in them and when they fail the computer does not know where the door position is. Because of this failure the door motor keeps moving when at the end of its travel and begins to strip the gear teeth causing the noise until the module shuts it down at a pre-determined time limit. To fix the noise you will likely need a new door motor. Thanks for the email Scott.

Take care, the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,
I have a 2002 Volkswagen Beetle with the 4 cylinder 1.8L Turbo. The engine runs great, but I have a check engine light on with a code P0411 stored in memory. This code is for the secondary air injection system. The air injection pump runs, and the hoses look good. I have been told it might be the check valve, but I can't seem to locate this. Have you heard of this problem on Beetles, and can you help me locate the elusive "check valve" and am I going in the right direction? I listen via your web site; you guys do a great job.

Dear Rodger,
I am familiar with the problem you are having, and it is common to many vehicles with a secondary air injection pump. Cars in the southern climates don't seem to be bothered by it as much as cold weather states but none the less it happens. The vehicle could have a bad air diverter check valve, but it could be as simple as condensation in the air hose between the pump and the valve. The air valve is located on the engine at the passenger side rear just under the top cover. Remove the hose and check it for water, then clean it out if it is present' reinstall it and see how it works. You will need to have the codes cleared before the system will operate and run a self-test.

Take care, the Motor Medics

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK™

MAKE a home escape plan. Draw a map of your home showing all doors and windows. Discuss the plan with everyone in your home.

KNOW at least two ways out of every room, if possible. Make sure all doors and windows leading outside open easily.

HAVE an outside meeting place (like a tree, light pole or mailbox) a safe distance from the home where everyone should meet.

PRACTICE your home fire drill at night and during the day with everyone in your home, twice a year,

PRACTICE using different ways out.

TEACH children how to escape on their own in case you can't help them.

CLOSE doors behind you as you leave.

Coming in tomorrow's
BRANDON VALLEY Journal

Brandon City Council met Monday evening, and we'll have a recap of the meeting.

The Brandon Valley Area Chamber of Commerce is moving and shaking this month, and we've got the details on all of the community endeavors the organization has planned. Speaking of the Chamber, Cyber Security was the topic of conversation at last week's On the Menu event, and we've got the scoop on ways to fend your personal information from online scammers.

As Beaver Valley Lutheran continues to recover from the late May tornado, they're celebrating with a special organ recital this Sunday and the entire community is invited to this milestone event.

Mark Eliason, who has been serving as interim pastor for First Lutheran and Palisade Lutheran congregations, has accepted the call to officially serve both parishes as its lead pastor.

A Brandon man is building birdhouses one at a time. But wait until you learn just how many birdhouses that Scott Gardner has created to date.

As always, we've got a full slate of Lynx sports recaps in both words and photos, and a feature on a soccer family who have been rooting on their kids from the bleachers for 20 years.

And there's a whole lot more. So, if you find yourself asking, "I wonder what's going on ...?" It's time to subscribe to the Brandon Valley Journal! Give us a call at 605-582-9999 to subscribe today so you can be in the know.

BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT

Lead, Learn, and Serve

When Dr. Amanda Nelson was offered the position of principal at Brandon Valley Middle School, she knew this was an opportunity to prepare students for their future and make a difference within the community of Brandon.

“I love working with students and instructional leadership. I try to be part of all the students and teachers lives by making myself available between classes, talking to students, and collaborating with the teachers. My goal is to create an environment for teamwork.”

On Oct. 12, Dr. Nelson is bringing “Challenge Day” to the Brandon Valley Middle School.

“My hope is to provide opportunities for students to lead, learn, and serve within the Brandon community and beyond,” said Dr. Nelson. “It’s important for all of us to learn empathy, but especially at this age for students to gain experience advocating for themselves at others through actions and words. This will help students prepare for moments when they may face adversity...and how they will respond.”

Dr. Nelson shared hometown influences that provided guidance as she shaped a career in education, including: Terry Gullickson, Chad Stadem, and Mark Stadem. Her greatest inspiration though is closer to home through the example of her father.

“There were many educators in my life that made a difference, including my dad. I was able to watch and learn from his example as he taught special education and his interactions with colleagues and students...I am really thankful for the opportunity to continue Brandon Valley School District’s reputation of excellence in education, arts, and athletics.”

We have been blessed to be a part of the Brandon Community for years. We believe it is important to develop strong community relationships, which in turn strengthens us as individuals, couples, friends and neighbors. We are proud to partner with Brandon and look forward to continuing to support this community. Thanks to all of you who have trusted us to help you and your families.
