Ask the Motor Medics®

Automotive Advice from The Under the Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,
My check engine light has been illuminated on my car for almost a year. When it first came on, I was alarmed so I had my mechanic check it out, they said it was due to a failed catalytic convertor and that it would be expensive to fix but since it would not harm the engine I could keep driving it that way and ignore the light. After about six months the engine started to run rough so I went back, and they told me I now had several other codes that needed immediate repair otherwise severe engine damage could occur. I don't want to spend the money on a convertor but how can I tell if something is failing if the light is already on for something else? My car is a 2008 Pontiac Grand Prix with 75k miles.

Ellen in Madison Wisconsin

Dear Ellen,
You can't tell if the light is already on. You need to repair the issue with the convertor in addition to the other system as well. I know many shops tell their customers a failed convertor won't hurt the engine so you can drive it but there are always side effects. In this case you can't tell what other problems may be in the system. This car may still be covered by an eight-year 80k mile federal emissions warranty that may cover the convertor. Check with a GM dealership to see if this is so.

Take care, The Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,
I have a 2008 Chevy Silverado with an in-dash cd player and for about a year the cds have not been ejecting well. Now I have three stuck in the unit and one belongs to the library. The others I basically store in the unit to save space in the console. Is there any way I can remove them myself? I have tried to use a screwdriver to open the door but can't see much inside the unit.

Tom in Martinsville

Dear Tom,
Stop! Don't ever try to use anything to pull a cd from an in-dash unit. These units are extremely delicate and doing so can damage the unit. Even the act of pushing a cd into the unit instead of letting the unit pull it in slowly by itself can damage the delicate mechanism. The unit may have failed just because it is aging but it may also be due to the cds used in the unit. An in-dash changer like yours is even more sensitive to cd quality than single disc players and it is extremely important to only use cds that are perfectly flat without any kind of stick-on labels; anything else is prone to getting stuck. A radio repair shop may be able to remove the disc then fix the unit, but the cost often exceeds the price of a similar replacement. You may want to check with the library for the cost of a replacement CD.

BRANDON VALLEY Journal

The Lady Lynx competitive dance team achieved their season-long goal of winning the AA State title, and they did it in near-perfect style by rising to the top in both jazz and pom. For a report from Saturday's championship excitement to Sunday's welcome home celebration, the Journal was on the sidelines for it all!

Speaking of state championship excitement, the Lynx cross country teams took aim at their respective state championships at Yankton Trails Park in Sioux Falls. For a recap of how the Lynx fared, check out this week's BV Journal!

We've also got the lowdown on BV's loss on the gridiron to Harrisburg last week and a recap of an exciting five-set road match at Sioux Falls Washington.

Brandon's city government operates under an aldermanic-city form of government. So, what does that mean? This week's Journal breaks it down for readers to gain a better understanding of why the city has two representatives for each of its three wards and an at large mayor.

Plus, we're also delving into Ordinance No. 644, which establishes special assessment policies and procedures, and received its first reading on Oct. 18.

Relocating her business to a larger space has been a game-changer for Catori owner Jenna Duarte. Find out how her business and services have expanded since her move last year in the midst of a pandemic.

The Journal continues its "Fathers & Sons" series this week, as Journal editor Jill Meier sat down with Drs. Dick and Alex Rogen, who recently began working side by side at Horizon Pet Care.

What's a hookah lounge? Well, we've got a report on the newly-opened Shisha Lounge Riviera south of Brandon.

Also included in this week's Brandon Valley Journal is a fall house and garden special section.

If you're a subscriber, thanks for reading! If you're not, what are you waiting for? Give us a call at 582-9999 so you can be in the know of everything that's "Coming in Tomorrow's Brandon Valley Journal"!
